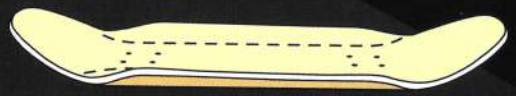
Mold index

Monster Mold

concave: 2.5
nose/tail kick: 2
mellow steep



The Monster mold is our most modern mold based on recommendations from many of our pro's desiring more mellow kicks in the nose and tail for better ease of foot placement and greater consistency by melting away some of the harshness of a defined crease in the kicks. The kicks also have a significant concave in this pocket area, creating a spoon shape which cups the back foot and adds rigidity to the sometimes soggy flat area behind the bolts. There is significant lateral concave and a very slight rocker for long lasting rigidity and pop.

Mini Monster Mold

concave: 2.5
nose/tail kick: 2
mellow steep

This is our mini mold, with an extremely short spine built for tiny decks. It's basically a Monster mold scaled down for a mini deck. We built it in response to the rather poorly done mini's available on the markets which are small decks cut out of a regular size blank, giving them almost no concave, nose or tail. This mold gives the little guys all the advantages that regular sized decks give to the pros.

Control Mold

concave: 1
nose/tail kick: 2
mellow steep

This mold has the least lateral concave of any of our molds. The spine is shorter than the Monster & Control Plus molds, yet longer than the Nitro; there is moderate flat space between the bolds and kicks. The kicks themselves have more arc, less of a crease, for ease of foot placement.

Control Plus Mold

concave: 2
nose/tail kick: 2
mellow steep

This mold is the standard from which most of our molds and a large portion of the industry's were developed. It has moderate concave and kicks, as well as a long spine, giving plenty of flat space between the bolts and the kick for maximum control.

Nitro Mold

concave: 2
nose/tail kick: 3
mellow steep

The Nitro mold has moderate concave with a short spine, meaning it has very little flat space between the bolts and kick. Although the angle of the kicks is only moderate, the nose and tail are higher than the rest of the molds due to their early start. This contributes to more overall rigidity, and a tighter response.

RESIN-V
V-PLY EPOXY CONSTRUCTION

BLIND RESIN V-PLY CONSTRUCTION

The Blind team demands the highest standards and quality when it comes to their personal boards. Through testing and development this same quality product is available to you. It starts with an assortment of the best Canadian hard rock maple veneers pressed into a handmade vertically laminated core. The core has over 75 individual glue joints creating unparalleled strength when compared to the standard 7-ply construction. This process creates a rigid and responsive core that helps increase deck's longevity and superior durability.

These cores all use epoxy resin glues resulting in a superior bond between all veneers. The result of this configuration produces the most durable deck in Blind's almost 20 year history of deck making and the leader of the Resin Series constructions.

TENSOR

NEW TENSOR LO

...is a bit of a fib. We've enhanced and chiseled the existing LO while preserving its basic features. Practically the whole team rides this truck and depends on its feel, so we bettered it in 3 subtle, yet important ways.

LOWER KINGPIN: We dropped the head by 1/8"—no snagging. There are a few ways to do this, so we chose the least disruptive method, preserving the height, weight, and turning radius. First, we effectively shortened the kingpin; second, we dropped the "seat" of the bottom bushing on the baseplate; last, we pulled the "ring" (top-bushing seat) deeper, away from the axle. This does affect the feel of the truck due to increased leverage on the bushing, so we treaded lightly. While 1/8" isn't much, it should be enough.

TIGHTER FIT: The fit of the hanger on the bushing was a bit "loose," which became more noticeable as the bushings and pivot cup compressed and stretched over their natural lifespan. The new precision fit creates a more solid, responsive feel.

QUICKER TURN: This was the last adjustment, compensating for the subtle geometrical effects of the first two, plus quickening the turn a bit simply because we felt the truck needed it.

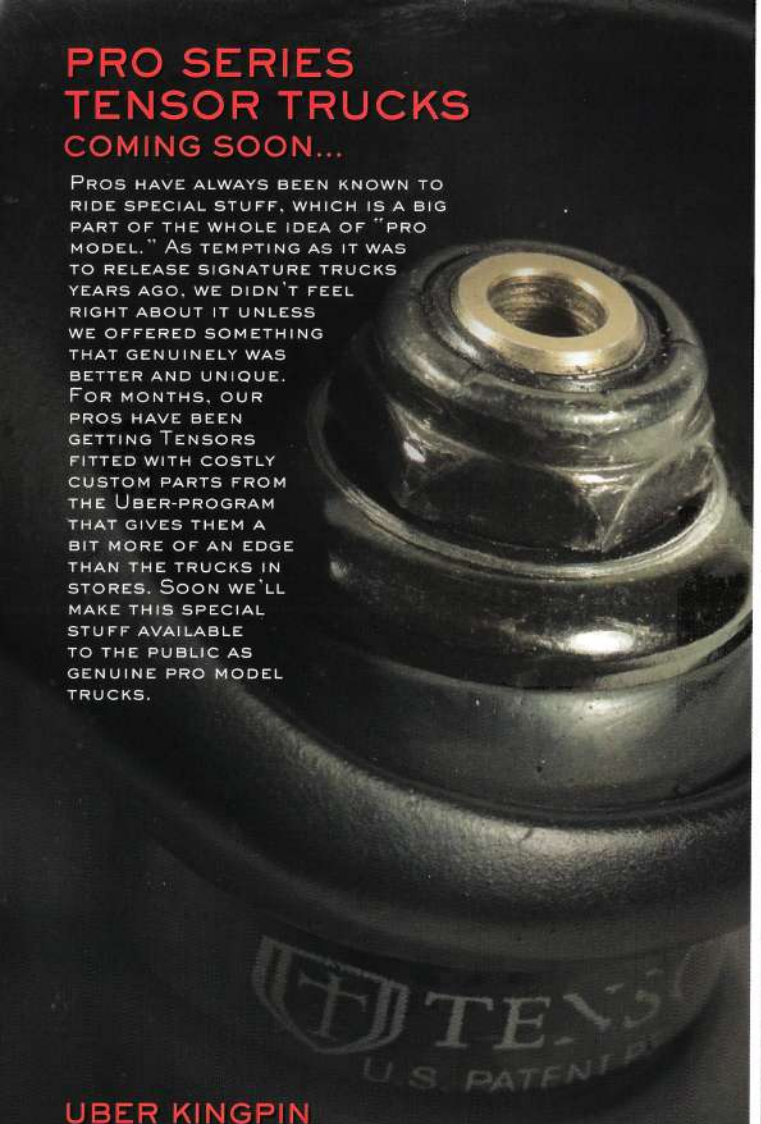
PRO SERIES TENSOR TRUCKS

COMING SOON...

Pros have always been known to ride special stuff, which is a big part of the whole idea of "pro model." As tempting as it was to release signature trucks years ago, we didn't feel right about it unless we offered something that genuinely was better and unique. For months, our pros have been getting Tensors fitted with costly custom parts from the Uber-program that gives them a bit more of an edge than the trucks in stores. Soon we'll make this special stuff available to the public as genuine pro model trucks.



UBER KINGPIN

The Uber Kingpin is one of the ways we've supercharged the trucks that our pros ride. We used a stronger 416 stainless steel and hollowed out the center of the kingpin to reduce its weight by 39%. Its machining and metallurgical tolerances are vastly better than what's available in normal kingpins. Below the crucial area of high stress concentration, where breakage normally occurs, we drilled with a larger diameter bit. From bottom to top, the larger hole tapers gradually into the smaller hole, significantly raising the strength to weight ratio by elegant design. Aerospace engineering at its finest.
